

Pig-A-Sus Homestead

Another year is almost gone and lots has happened this year. Some good, some bad, but as always the Potbelly Pig is warm, full and knows they are loved.

We have grown again in size and it is heart breaking this holiday season to see the number of animals that are being given up for lack of education and government zoning and regulations.

If we could be granted 1 wish from "A Genie Bottle" it would not be that every animal on Earth has a warm and loving home, It would be that the Government (rather Federal, State, County or City Ordinances) would see that they are the main ones responsible for Animal Abuse, Neglect and Rescues, not only for the potbelly pig, but all animals, with their lax status of breeding rules and regulations. If we could get "Government" to step up to their responsibility, the rest, Good loving homes, warm and well cared animals will come on it's own. Rescue numbers reduced greatly.

So as the holiday season is well upon us, please take a minute to really look at the situation on animal overpopulation in your area. Ask questions, be heard.

May your Holiday Be Joyful, Loving & Most of all
